

Assignment - 01 IHVPE

Section - A

- Q.1 Ethos refers to the characteristic spirit, values, beliefs and culture of a community or society that guide its behavior and practices.
- Q.2 Indian Ethos means the set of values, traditions, philosophy, and cultural principles rooted in Indian civilization, emphasizing spirituality, morality, duty and harmony in life.
- Q.3 Indian Knowledge System (IKS) is the body of traditional knowledge developed in India over centuries, including philosophy, science, arts, medicine (Ayurveda), mathematics and spirituality.
- Q.4 Interiorization is the process of self-reflection and understanding one's inner self, thoughts and consciousness to achieve personal growth and self-realization.
- Q.5 Nishkarma Karma means performing actions without expecting any reward or personal gain, as explained in the Bhagavad Gita.

Section - B

- Q.6 The cultural essence of India lies in its diversity, unity, spirituality and tolerance. India has a rich heritage of languages, religions, traditions and philosophies. Despite diversity unity is maintained through shared values like respect, family bonding and moral duty. Spirituality plays a key role, focusing on inner peace and self-realization. Indian culture promotes harmony between humans, nature and the universe.

Q.7 Scriptures like the Vedas, Upanishads, Bhagavad Gita and Ramayana form the foundation of IKS. They provide knowledge about life, ethics, duty and spirituality. These texts guide moral conduct, social responsibilities and philosophical thinking. They also contribute to fields like medicine, astronomy and mathematics. Scriptures help preserve ancient wisdom and pass it to future generations.

Q.8 Interiorization helps individuals understand themselves, while ~~the~~ scientific pursuit helps understand the external world. Integrating both leads to balanced development. Science without values can lead to misuse, while spirituality without logic may lack practicality. Combining both ensure ethical innovation, responsible technology use and holistic growth of individuals and society.
